A race of peace, a race of defense, a race of patience. The thoe are small creatures, somewhat resembling a human - but with peaceful intentions. The thoe acquire peace by simple preservation. Few creatures can harm them severely, even fewer can kill them.

Yet the thoe are not an aggressive race, they seek peace above all else. In this, they stay at peace with other races by being faster, by being more agile and having an imperviousness to all forms of attack that every race can be envious of. The thoe became resistant all forms of attack due to their self-disciplined history. A race that has burned imperviousness to all forms of damage simply by exposing themselves to it. A race destined to outlive all races.
